BULLETIN

The body of Charles Buckles was found at 9:05 a.m. to day, 1/4 to 1/2 mile south of where the missing fishermen's overturned boat was found Wednesday. The body was in shallow water, in weeds, and was discovered by Frank Prevatt, Buckles' uncle, according to Constable Buford Prescott and the Florida Highway Patrol. The Air Force crash boat brought the body to Slim's Camp. The search for Carnes is continuing.

7 ORDINANCES OKAYED

BELLE GLADE—The passage of seven ordinances relating to coverage from master plumbers to water tapping fees occupied much of the regular session of the City Council Wednesday night.

The master plumber's bond ordinance was passed on its second reading. The ordinance provides that a "dangerous" building may be demolished if the extent of damages exceeds 50 per cent of market value, setting forth duties of the appraisal board, and amending and defining water department tapping fees starting with $25 for 1/4 inch main and going to $800 for a six-inch main.

PAHOKEE — National and state public health officials met with representatives from the Pahokee and Belle Glade hospitals this week at Everglades Memorial Hospital in Pahokee.

The group met to review the progress that has been made through the maternity program the past three years and re-evaluate the method of administering the plan. Comparative statistics on pre-natal care were presented and showed a marked reduction in the maternal and infant mortality rate since the institution of the present program.

Present at the meeting were Dr. Lucille Marsh, chief of program planning branch of U. S. Children's Bureau in Washington, D.C.; Dr. R. W. McCann, director, Bureau of Maternal and Child Health of Florida; Miss Eileen E. Lester, Regional medical social consultant, Children's Bureau, Atlanta; Edward E. WRECKED BRIDGE FIXED SLIGHTLY

SOUTH BAY — Stop-gap repairs — literally — have been made on the bridge here wrecked by a truck-car collision Friday night.

Protection of pedestrians brought some repairs to the bridge, the superstructure of which was so badly wrecked in the accident that it had to be torn down.

South Bay Police Chief R. C. White and Florida Highway Patrolman Joseph Bertrand investigated the accident, in which a truck driven by Daniel W. Boatwright, of S. A. Smith, smashed into the rear of a car driven by Eugene Phillips, Belle Glade, and then into the superstructure. Boatwright was charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, and causing an accident involving damage to State property.

BELLE GLADE—Police Chief Charles Goodlet asked the army of searchers to return at 7:30 this morning, to continue the hunt for Jack Carnes, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Carnes, Atlanta, and his brother-in-law, A. I. Charles W. Buckles, 20, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Buckles, Belle Glade.

Chief Goodlet and three of his police officers, Raymond Trammell, J. A. Congleton, and Carl Williams spent most of last night on the lake in two boats, in search of the missing men, but their work was fruitless.

The hunt for the two men, who set out Tuesday morning for fishing in a 12-foot boat, powered by a 25-hp motor, began Tuesday night.

Alarmed by Night

They did not come back to Slim's Fishing Camp at Crousen in mid-afternoon, when they were to be met to go back to town. When night fell and there was no sign of them, Slim and Fred Corbin, Frank Miller and Constable Buford Prescott started hunting.

They were joined by Joe Bass and Commodore Billy McKinstry and Councilman Louis F. Mims of the Pahokee Boat Club, whose help was enlisted.

Mims and McKinstry found the boat partially submerged, about 6:30 a.m. About two feet of the bow was out of the water, and the boat was upside down. The motor still on. The boat was its motor still on. The boat was its motor still on.

BELLE GLADE—Fifty Belle Glade business and professional men and women this week launched an intensive campaign to adequately finance an expanded program of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tuesday, the "kick-off" dinner, the current financial effort in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce marked the close of two and one-half days of intensive planning.

E. M. Lively, general chairman of the campaign, pointed out that the possibilities of Belle Glade are limited only by the vision and initiative of her citizenship. He urged all members of the campaign organization to devote the necessary time to complete their work as early as possible.

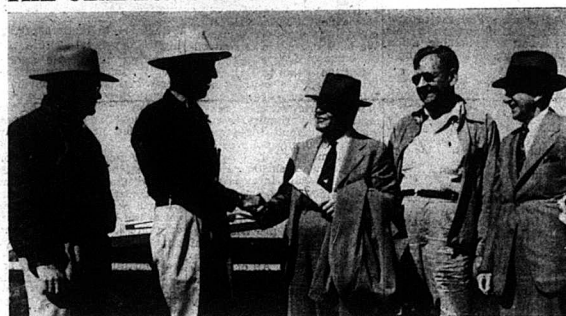

George Wedgworth, C. of C. president, outlined the 1954 objectives as embodied in the expanded program. He discussed the minimum financial objective of $6,500, stating that actually a fund of $8,000 was more in line with the demands being made upon the Chamber office.

Financial Goals

"We believe that the business and professional men and women of Belle Glade and her trade area have a more comprehensive understanding of the place of the Chamber and what the organization means to our growth and prosperity," emphasized R. E. Hotard, sales manager of the campaign. He announced the individual group financial goals as adopted in the several business clinics as follows: agriculture, $175; automotive industry, $150; diversified, $650; hotels-motels, bars, restaurants, $325; professional, $390; real estate-finance and (Continued On Page 10)

Students' Wishes Told By Educator

PAHOKEE—High school boys and girls with their family circles were closer-knit, that there were less activities to take up students' time, that information on human relations were more available and more freely given—and they wish a multitude more things, besides.

That was the conclusion of Dr. C. Lee Eggert, professor of education at the University of Florida, who drew from the high school students' panel he conducted here at the PTA district meeting Tuesday.

Speaking Tuesday night to the Pahokee Lions' Ladies Night observance at the Woman's Club, Dr. Eggert capsuled what student teams from Belle Glade, Pahokee, and Palm Beach expressed during their discussion.

All-State Youth panels are being conducted all over the state to teach youth to think out their problems themselves, and to find out what students are thinking, Dr. Eggert said.

Students' opinions of their parents are not all critical, Dr. Eggert said. The young people say their parents are becoming more understanding and more receptive of their ideas, "treating them as adults," Dr. Eggert reported.

However, said the educator, (Continued On Page 10)

Clinic Site, Motel Council Topics

PAHOKEE—Location of Pahokee's proposed public health center adjacent to Everglades Memorial Hospital, and decision to consider rezoning action to enable a new motel to be built here were major actions of City Council at a meeting last night.

BELLE GLADE BANK READY

BELLE GLADE — The curiosity of a sizeable portion of residents about what the new Florida National Bank at Belle Glade's size is six and a half times the old building has a very simple answer, President E. M. Lively said this week.

The Glades has grown big and is getting bigger, and the bank not only has progressed rapidly, but itself expects to grow larger, Lively said.

Thus, the two-story, 60 by 115 feet new building at 41 SW Ave. B has 11 teller's windows as against two in the old building; four other departmental windows as against one before.

Its estimated cost is $175,000.

Opened 1941

The bank, which opened Nov. 18, 1941, had $150,000 deposits the first week of its existence. In nearly 13 years it has grown to total deposits of $3,036,613.43 as of last week, Lively said.

Sunday, the general public is invited to come and see for itself the most recently completed building in downtown Belle Glade. Open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m.

Officers of the bank in addition to the president are Dean S. Campbell, vice president; J. F. Wooten, cashier; Russell E. Tucker, Willis Warren, and Ceryle L. Calhoun, assistant cashiers. Directors are Campbell, of Miami; Joseph D. Farish, Jr., West Palm Beach; E. E. Kelly, Clewiston; Lively, of E. M. Van Landingham and Mrs. Ruth S. Timmons, Belle Glade.

Bert Roemer was contractor for the new building, and J. T. Woodall, engineer for the Florida National Bank in Jacksonville supervised special installations.

Glades Co. E, Florida Natl. Guard Conducting Recruiting Drive

BELLE GLADE—Glades Company E of the Florida National Guard is beginning a recruiting drive in Pahokee, Canal Point, Belle Glade, South Bay and Clewiston. Lt. John Cromartie, commanding officer, said this week.

Cromartie is in charge of Belle Glade area recruiting; Lt. Bob McQueen, in Pahokee-Canal Point, and Sgt. Warren Howell, Clewiston.

Young men are reminded that they must enlist in the Guard before the age 18½ to be deferred from Selective Service, Lt. Cromartie said.

In Pahokee, Sgt. Russell Sims of Canal Point will address a high school group on the advantages of the Guard. O. G. Ryals and Winston Gillis of Pahokee are the newest Guard enlistees.

Radio Station WSWN will will carry special recruiting programs and announcements during the drive. The public is invited to attend Guard drills at the Belle Glade Legion Hall any Monday at 8 p.m.

Market Needs A Thousand Cattle

BELLE GLADE—A thousand cattle each week for the next several weeks are needed at Glades Livestock Market Monday sales, Manager George C. Young said this week.

Four hundred and seven cattle sold at the market Monday at the price of $55.9875, according to the manager's report.

However, said Young, the run was short, and packer buyers were beginning for cattle. They are just not available from other areas of Florida, he added.

The complete sale report follows:

141 steers, 50 heifers, 7 yearlings, 65 calves, 118 cows, 26 bulls.

ton, D.C., want to build here, Attorney Thadd Whidden told Council.

They are "ready to go" as soon as they can get a building permit, he said, and verbally requested Council to consider rezoning the old Thompson property, from a Residential to C residential.

Council decided that upon receipt of written request for zoning change, a public hearing would be set for Mar. 22 following publication of a notice of hearing.

Center Site

The decision to notify County Attorney Harry A. Johnston and county health department officials that the proposed health center was to be located on the location of public health Memorial Hospital came after considerable discussion.

The State Board of Health, the Florida Planning and Zoning Association, and the hospital improvement Commission all favor the location of public health centers close to the hospitals in rural areas, it was reported to Council.

The county-proposed site of the Pahokee health center had been next to City Hall. Council took action on locating the center this week after finding that a topographical survey of that site already had been made.

City Needs Space

Locating a center on city property at City Hall would doom any future construction of additional municipal buildings, Council decided. Besides the space shortage that would result at the City Hall area, city property at the hospital was a more logical site for the center, the councilmen decided.

All city property at the hospital is zoned for the addition of such a health center. City Attorney Ralph Johnson reported after checking the zoning map.

TWENTY MILE BEND PUMPS ON] WAY TO WORKABILITY AT LAST

PHOTOGRAPHED FOR THE GLADES OBSERVER BY GRANT AVERILL

Hoover Group Sees Work, Too

BY JANE RIEKER

When Hoover Commission task force officials stepped off their planes at Pahokee Airport Monday morning, after an air inspection of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control project, they seemed universally agreed that here was a gigantic but worthwhile U. S. government project.

Fresh from Washington, D.C., where almost every federal legislator has some sort of "pork barrel" project to expend taxpayers' money in his district, the Commission representatives said "Now this, really, is something."

Earlier, they had stopped by the work going on at the king-sized pump station near Twenty-Mile Bend, and the landborne impressions received must have been reinforced a thousandfold. The sight of the big (five carloads each) pumps lying along the side of the West Palm Beach Canal, ready for installation, has been a familiar one to Glades residents ever since the pumps were delivered months ago.

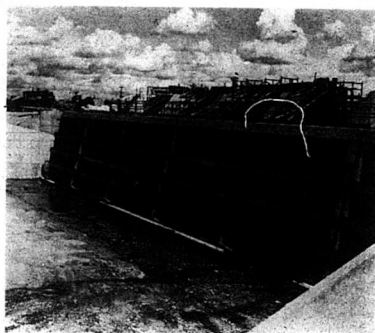

Now, work is in progress—a favorite government term which happily applies literally at Twenty-Mile Bend.

No. 6 First

Of the six big pumps, Number 6 is the first to be installed at the site where some happy day, flood or drought will be remedied by the push of a button.

Looking like some relic from a medieval castle, the intake gates of the new reservoir in the conservation area will open and swallow up the flood waters brought by canal (Picture 1).

Responsible for the Corps of Engineers job which gives man power to control the divine idiosyncrasies of nature is, in this case, the Belcher Oil Co. Their men work and supervise the job of construction, under the eagle eye of the Engineers. (Picture 2).

Fairbanks-Morse Co. of Milwaukee built the big pumps with their 12-foot brass propellers, and though this is not their largest pump creation, it is of the largest capacity they have made. The pumps, when ready for installation, have five carloads each of parts, and their size makes a mere man look fragile. (Picture 3).

The "intake bay," a great pool which will accept the waters of the canals and ditches of the area north of and including the West Palm Beach Canal, dwarfs the mere human in size. (Picture 4).

Control Room

When all six pumps are installed, a pumping office and control room will be built atop them. Presently, the construction work in the big hole where the pumps and bay are going in will not admit any more heavy machinery. So a gasoline-driven tamper is operating to pack every inch of soil in the hole firm. Eventually, the earth around the pumping area will again level with the top of the bay and pumps, and form a solid footing for the construction of the station. (Picture 6).

The six pumps will have a capacity of 2,160,000 gallons of water per minute, a fabulous total for any pump station, and certainly the first approaching this size in the U.S.

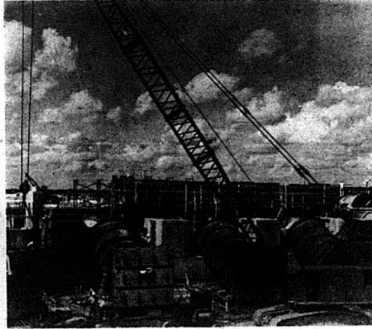

Scheduled for completion in early 1955, the pump station should be operating at least at half capacity by the critical rainy season next fall.

So the Hoover Commission visitors, seeking facts on the operation of the mighty control project, saw at Twenty Mile Bend one part of the vast water control plan in South Florida.

The whole project is hard even for Glades residents, who live with it, to visualize. The project area covers 15,570 need for some overall control square miles, twice the size of the state of New Jersey.

It is 250 miles long and averages 75 miles in width, and includes every Glades town as well as Ft. Lauderdale, West Palm Beach, Stuart, Ft. Pierce, Okeechobee and Homestead areas.

Hoover Knew

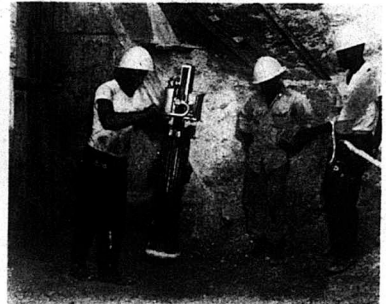

It was President-Elect Herbert Hoover, an engineer himself, who came to Florida after the hurricane of 1928 and saw the

This week, engineers and other water control experts themselves visited the area, in the name of the very man who long ago came in person to find out what was what in an area struck down by wind and water.

The Hoover Commission task force members looked and listened, and went back to Washington to report to their chief, whose political designation during the early depression was 6—EVERY INCH of dirt close to pumps is gas-tamped, to insure solid footing for pump station.

"The Great Engineer," then meant as a jibe. Perhaps the residents of the Glades appreciate most what the man who 26 years ago knew "The Great Engineer" did for South Florida.

It is a sort of ultimate justice that the group which visited the Glades this week represented what the man who 26 years ago knew what great engineering could do.

New Miami Cutoff Advocated

A proposed cutoff which estimatedly will save about two hours travel time between the Glades and southernmost Florida is being advocated in towns from Lake Wales to Key West this week.

Rep. B. Elliott said he was informed by John Balfe, of Homestead, secretary to a group petitioning for the cutoff, that Glades towns are invited to join in the request.

The State Road Department is being asked to assist in construction of a connecting road between the Tamiami Trail at Krome Ave., SR 27, and north approximately 10 miles to U.S. 27 at Pensacola.

Opposition to any road bypassing Miami is strong, Balfe reported, so the citizens' group in southern Florida is requesting towns in counties to the north to help persuade the SRD of the need for the cutoff.

W. H. Lanier, of Clewiston, president of the Road 27 association, said "When the connecting road is built by-passing Miami, any number of folks living in the lake area will visit the Keys more often. For agriculture it offers a wonderful saving in time of transportation."

The XP-21 Firebird, first gas turbine automobile in the United States, has been announced by General Motors. In the cockpit, beneath a plastic bubble, is Test Driver Mauri Rose who put the car through shake-down races at GM's proving grounds near Milford, Mich., and Phoenix, Ariz. The car's aerodynamic styling has an aircraft motif with a "needle" nose, swept-back delta wings and vertical tail fin. Because the gas turbine uses large volumes of air, the Firebird has scoops on either side of the driver's cockpit and a large tail cone for exhaust gas. Its kerosene burning engine, mounted at the rear of the driver's seat, consists of two mechanically independent parts, a gasifier section and a power turbine. The power turbine delivers power to the car's rear wheels via a two-speed transmission. The Firebird is an experiment to determine whether gas turbines will be feasible for ground vehicles.

THE NOSE

The nose has an important function in the health of the body — to act as conveyor of air to the lungs — which are the breathing organs.

The tip of the nose, a soft structure, acts as a valve. Inside the nose is a partition, the septum, separating the right side from the left and maintaining the rigidity of the pathway through which air passes. The hair serves to filter out dust or infectious material entering the nose from the air. The breathing passages into the lungs are small, curved and rigid. When for any reason the function of these individual units is impaired, improper and inadequate breathing is apt to result.

Plastic surgery is used in the repair of the nose, serving to restore good function and, frequently, improved cosmetic appearance.

In surgical repair, the required bones and cartilages are usually taken from some section of the patient's body. It is interesting that cartilage is the body tissue most resistant to infection; it also requires less nourishment. This is can be safely transplanted to another area with good results. Very often in nasal repair, a skin flap from the forehead is used.

When a nose has been destroyed by accident or disease, a completely new nose has to be fashioned from neighboring tissues. The most common repair, however, consists of rearranging and remodeling the nasal tissues still present to give the best function and most pleasing effect.

An unsightly looking nose, whether a congenital development or accidentally incurred, may be a source of deep-rooted emotional conflict. A person who desires a cosmetic repair should not be criticized for it is the feeling of well-being in every man that gives him the sense of equality.

Rail oddities

FASTEST TIME IN THE 1953 INTERNATIONAL TUGBOAT RACE IN NEW YORK HARBOR WAS MADE BY A RAILROAD TUG—THE SHANGHAI.

IT WON THE 2-MILE RACE DOWN THE HUDSON RIVER IN 9 MINUTES 38 SECONDS—ALSO WON FIRST PLACE IN 1952.

SOME TUGS HAVE THE NAUGHTY BUSINESS OF HELPING DOCK THE BIG OCEAN LINERS BUT THE SHANGHAI AND MANY OTHER TUGS COMPETING THE RAILROAD "HAPPY" ARE USED FOR TOWING FREIGHT CARS.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Handy and Easy "Sign Up"

Last month's safety drive was a big success—almost. Every one helped—the schools ran movies on safe driving, Rotary put up posters, and Handy and Easy Peters went out on their own.

The boys put up a big sign by the side of the highway. It said, "Slow down—the life you save may be your own." It was a good idea—after the police moved the sign back twelve feet.

In their enthusiasm Handy and Easy put it too close to the road—in fact, right on the sharpest curve on the highway. They made driving unsafe by cutting off the view around the curve.

From where I sit, lots of people—even though they mean well—suffer from short-sightedness now and again. For instance, some can never see any further than their own preferences. They even go so far as to object to my choice of a glass of beer with supper. Shouldn't we always take the "long view"... and respect our neighbors' rights?

The daily demands made upon the Chamber were described by President C. Young, executive secretary of the organization. She told of the hundreds of tourists and visitors who daily come to her office for information and help, pointing out that the Chamber office actually becomes the public relations department for each business and profession in the city. "We have sent out more than 7,500 pieces of literature during the past year" and have personally answered upwards of 3,000 inquiries from every state in the Union. "Interest in Belle Glade is definitely increasing and I am sure that Belle Glade is recognized as the key city in the great agricultural section of the Everglades," declared Mrs. Young.

R. G. Grassfield, program director, reviewed the organization work and plans to finance the expanded program for work. He told the assembled men and women that Belle Glade business and professional interests must meet and solve their own problems; that the inherent resources of this area are equal to or surpass any other similar area within the state.
